STAFF PICKS for children

"A Boy Called Bat" by Elana K. Arnold

Bixby Alexander Tam - a.k.a. "Bat" - loves animals and also happens to be on the autism spectrum. Experience Bat's world first hand as we find ourselves rooting for him as he cares for an orphaned baby skunk and learns to navigate his first friendship.

"Puss Jekyll Cat Hyde" by Joyce Dunbar

Puss Jekyll is the perfect pet, but she has a secret. At night she becomes Cat Hyde, mischievous hunter of small critters, not an ideal house pet. How can these two personalities coexist in one furry cat body?

Dinosaurs in the ELC!

Dinosaurs have taken over the Early Literacy Center at MCPL Wausau! Follow the T-rex footprints to the ELC and explore the magnet wall, flannel board, volcano, activity play mat, puppet stand and more.

Pretend play is an important part of your child's development. Let your child's imagination run wild as they explore a "dinosaur world" play mat with realistic dinosaur action figures. Your child can also put on a show with dinosaur puppets and arrange dinosaurs within the volcanic scene on the felt board! These activities promote hands-on learning and hand-eye coordination.

Learn fun facts about volcanoes and their power to erupt! You and your child can explore this natural wonder. Open the volcano up to see the core and the "hot" lava!

Stomp on over to the magnet board and encourage your child to say the ABCs while arranging the dino cards from A to Z. This will help with letter knowledge and vocabulary. Also, count with your child while arranging the dino eggs from 1 to 10, and help them build spatial skills by using green shapes to create different dinosaurs.

Work with your child to complete board puzzles, tangrams and more! Enjoy a wide variety of dinosaur-themed informational books, picture books and board books, and read together.

The ELC features materials and activities for children ages 0-5 years old and their parents/caregivers. If you have questions about early literacy, please ask our trained staff at the children's desk. We are here to help you and your child find books, get ready for school and instill a love of learning.

Participate in the next Big Library Read!

This fall, curl up with a book that thousands of others will be reading at the same time!

November 4-18, Overdrive - the company that supplies books to Wisconsin's Digital Library - will host their next Big Library Read. During this global online book club, unlimited e-book and audiobook copies of a selected title are made available for all Overdrive and Libby app users to download using their library cards.

The book selection for this fall is Gilly Segal and Kimberly Jones' young adult novel "I'm Not Dying with You Tonight." The novel follows teenagers Lena and Campbell, who couldn't be more different from each other. Lena is confident, has a great boyfriend and has her future all mapped out. Campbell keeps to herself and has just one goal: survive the year at her new school. Both girls attend the school's Friday night football game, where the crowd unexpectedly gets caught up in a race riot, and Lena and Campbell must work together to survive the night.

Need help getting set up with the free Overdrive or Libby app on your computer, smartphone or tablet? Just stop in to any MCPL location or call the MCPL Wausau reference desk for assistance. For more info, visit www.biglibraryread.com or call 715-261-7230.

NOVEMBER–DECEMBER 2019

Library Hours Changing!

One of the Marathon County Public Library's main goals is to give the best service possible to our patrons. To help better serve you, the hours of operation at each MCPL location will change in mid-January. A balance of morning, afternoon and evening hours will be offered at each of our nine locations. In addition, Saturday hours will be offered at each location in order to provide patrons with weekend access to their local library in every part of the county!

Take note of the new service hours listed below, which will go into effect starting January 12. A few recurring events, such as story times and book clubs, will be affected by the change in hours and will meet at new times. Please contact your local library for more information about those changes.
